

Declaration of the 2010 JCI Global Partnership

23 June 2010, New York, USA

As young active citizens, committed to positive change, we now resolve to take our words and transform them into action: we will take charge in our communities; we will undertake projects with measurable results and we will take our commitment to the next level.

We hereby resolve:

1. That each Local and National Organization will take active steps to engage their governments to address the United Nations Millennium Developments Goals.
2. That every Local and National Organization will provide their government with a road map to build partnerships for a better world.
3. To actively build a global network of partnerships across sectors – corporations, the civil society, governments and Local and National Organizations - that will accelerate our commitment to distribute 1,000,000 insecticide-treated bed nets in Africa by 2015.

Knowing that we must act, we resolve to be a catalyst for change. We resolve to meet again in one year's time to report on our progress with global partners and to take stock of our ability to lead the world to realizing the United Nations Millennium Development Goals.

Done this 23rd day of June 2010 in New York, USA.